RESILIENCE

The potential to recover quickly, adapt & overcome. This, we believe is the core characteristic of every cancer patient.

The column is designed from the abstract form of a tree

Creating a focal point using the tree and its canopy.

Brahmaputra river course through Barpeta

The ability to bounce back from hardship and spring up even in adversity.

Trees are the epitome of Resilience. They either bend or break in a storm. But not without a fight.

Natural textures like stone & wood resonate with the concept. The use of green panels, further emphasizes the concept.

Abstract leaves of native Assamese trees like Hollong, Arecanut and Kurta are used in the wall graphics while Bamboo is used for the waiting benches.

Vitrified tile and granite shades corresponding to the colour palette, are used for the flooring & inlay patterns.

Hues of blue and green serve as accents, highlighting furniture and mural pieces.

A central focal point is created using the false ceiling, depicting two trees forming a canopy, below which the seating is arranged.

Asymmetrical and organic forms are most often thought of naturally occurring.

The flooring inlay, inspired from the growth pattern of a branch, creates a sense of direction towards the reception. This is also reflected in the ceiling.

The arrangement of 86 seats is centralized creating maximum circulation space all around.
